WHY CAPITALISM WINS

In capitalist free market economy the citizens are more powerful than elected leaders. In socialist system like India, Russia Pakistan ,etc. the elected leaders always gets the best among the citizens have only crumbs for. Take example of right Hon begum Hazarat Mahal of lucknow who refused a British pension and a princely state after her defeat during the sepoy mutiny of 1857.can you tell one single member of parliament of any socialist country who refused the perk privilege power salary pension. Its only because of this factor that the elected bodies remain aloof regarding the citizens apathy. If you remove all the perk and privilege among the elected members then they will be forced to live among us, then only the nation will move towards a free market economy. Then only the dreaded tax terrorism of gst and income tax will disappear.

Because in a socialist system the central leadership wants to change the fortune of the country by bringing a central policy by themselves. But that will never work. Because laws of thermodynamics says that the maximum potential you can extract from a person is directly proportional to the internal resistance of the body. That means if you extract more the person will resist. So no person can really help others. Each individual must try to come up on his own. That’s why why in spite of all efforts you have the largest disparity among the people, this is fact but people don’t like it though.
